In place of the ordinary 'Party,' we have brought into use this winter some very pleasant social recensions. The first came into existence at the suggestion of the wife of one of air University Professors, who opened her doors to a company of thirty or forty and invited them to entertain themselves with reading from such authors as they might choose and with music and conversation. In the course of the evening the programme is varied by the introduction of coffee and an allowance of eximple cake. These meetings are held weekly, and thus far have proved very pleasant. The company engaged in them have taken the name of 'Ihe Round Table.' On the evening after the death of Macsulay was announced, the readings were taken chiefly from his writings. Thack Lating Commerch.—We are gratified. Altenbofen, the sitting member, had a large majority of votes, and was clearly enough the choice of the people in his Election District, which is in Washington county. Mr. A. a vote was 519. At the same time a Mr. Delany, who ownests the sent of Mr. Altenhofen, received 502 votes, said a Mr. Myers 2802. The ground on which the sent was contested was the fact that Mr. A. was a Postmaster in the village of Kevaskum at the time of his election. Our State Constitution makes any one holding office under the United States Government ineligible to a State office. In the present case Mr. A resigned his office before the assembling of the Legislates. signed his office before the assembling of the Lagislature, and this, it was claimed, exempted him from the operation of the cobstitutional that the operation of the cobstitutional that the decision of a man, or to his eccepting his real, and here the argument became phileloguest and constitutional. Then precedents were brought up, but these did not seem to have much weight, it being urged that each Legislature would act in such cases according to its own disposition, and moreover that these precedents had, most if not all of them, occurred in the old times of Democratic sway, and were attributable, as to their decisions, to party feeling. The debate was continued with so much carnessness, that members forged their dishors, and the session was protracted from ten o'clock until about

Douglas' proposed slave code for white men as the last step towards a "consolidated des potism" of the Federal Government over the redeal Generalisat to a consolidate deposition.

Mr. Douglas' proposed law is the legical-parent of all the infernal machines which grind the people of Europe—espionage, muziling of the press, irresponsible courts, unlawful arrests, and the whole category of oppression. They all proceed from the assumption that a certain class of opinions must be exterminated. Francis Joseph and Louis Bonaparte spend all their days and all their powers in "suppressing the irresponsible conflict."

Douglas' nomination at Charleston, is an idea story, started to cause a stare, and has no trult in 1. Douglas' friends are neither flush enough to raise such a sum, nor sanguine enough of his nomination to renture that amount of moper on his prospects. The best friends he has would his prespects. The best friends he has would jump at the opportunity to sell his chances at Charleston for half the sum. The other statement "that two millions of copies of his recent sedition law speech" are being circulated, is equally destitute of truth, it is known to be true that he ordered fifty thousand copies of it printed before he delivered it. He circulated a position of them in the South, and a few copies in the North, but suppressed a major part of the sedition. The destrins he advocated afarmed the very class he aimed to conclinte, as they alreads at the root of State Rights, and if earlied

Edmundson stepped saide in front of Hickman, and suddenly and unexpectedly aimed a blow at his face with his fast, which knocked off his hat. Before he had, time to repostit, Keitt seized Edmundson's arm and called to the others to by hold of Hickman, who ex-deavored to close with his antagonist. Hefore, they were separated, Edmundson struck Hick-man twice or three times with a light twig or switch which he had in his left hand—calling switch which he had in his left hand—calling him at the same time 6 "clanderer and a coward." Further hostilities were precluded by the interference of Breckinridge and Keist, who separated them. It is said, that if the fracus had not been stopped where it was, Hick-man would have stretched has assailant on the pavement with his revolver. Edmundson is a large powerful man, in robust health. Hickman iarge powerful man, in robust health. Hickman is a slight built man, in ill-health—indeed hardly able to be in his seat. He has been spitting blood from a pulmonary affection, and is the last person a brave or soler man would think of assulting. Some say that the Virginian was under the influence of bad brandy at the time; others, that he prefers assailing a man in Hick-man's feeble physical condition.

The cause of the avanult is said to be the late speech Hickman made on the secasion of the serenade to Speaker Pennington, wherein he ridiculed the idea of the fire-saters dis-notring the Union, or devouring the North, as they had so often threatened and boasted they would do in the event of the election of a Re-

A feeling of dissatisfaction prevails here among the various Republicas Associations, at the action of the lately-adjourned N. Y. Central Committee, relative to the manner of cheesing elegates to the Chiesgo Convention. Instead of continuing the old, and it is claimed, more democratic plan of allowing sach Congressions District to nominate its own delegate, the Committee have conferred the power upon the Syranses Convention. That body will choose the delegates in a lump, and the latter will, of

for any other pursuit than the sad, conserving, feverish file of "the street."

These uses here a kindly "fellow feeling for each other; some such emotion as may exist between prisoners in one cell, starvelings in the famine, stares in the same galley. If one of their suggest is entirely "cleaned out, though he may have "falled on" them saverely, they are quick to help him to a few dellars and to take his contracts for a fresh start. As their dealings are based on honor, a certain ohiralrous regard for one's word is to be found among them. Lastly, I observe that the rowdyigm continuedly, going, on in their room, is rather of a mirthful than an ugly nature, and seems to act as a kind of safety-valve for the remeadous excitement and suspense under which the market is at all times laborating. "I observe in the Springheld Republican some interesting statistics bearing on the relative increase is arculation of Republican and Admincrease in errelation of Republican and Administration journals, and citing itself, the New York Tribuse, and the Chicago Parma and Tallburk as the first remarkable instances of prosperity, based upon an outspeken defeuce of rightly set, known in the bislory of the American Press. It states that you have doubled your circulation in two years, and its own growth has shown a greater per cont. than the New York Tribuses. Those isets seem to me to be the best index of the true atrength of the freedom lovers of the North, and of the future success of a party, which was originally built up by the minerices of the North, and of the future success of a party, which was originally built up by the minerices of the North, and of the future consideration.

the influence of the very journals under consideration.

In the literary world the only announcement of general interest is that of a new volume at journal of postess by Airs. E. B. Browning, soon to be published from advance sheets, by C. S. Francis à Co. The health of this subtoress is failing rapidly, and the public may never have another book from her inspired pen. The War of the Dictionaries grows here and forious. Shall Webster or Worcester rule! is the great question of the day. I will write you sounshing of what the New York magnates say about it in onether letter. Launcator.

Dis Morem. Teb. 10th, 1806.

Testerday the Senate was engaged all lay in the discussion of a bill for appropriation to the Insane Asylum. Thas Asylum has been in process of ercetion some four years. It is in design the finest institution of the kind in all the

The opposition to this appropriation arises from the fact that two pears ago it was represented to the Lagislature that the $100,000 then given weakle complete the building. And even last fall, during the eampaign, the architect of the building reported that about $15,000 would complete it; and this was said in reply to the because and by the Democrate that it would be the company of the time of the company the Asylum are Democrats. So the attempt for the past year to make this a party question must fail. But there is no excuse for the mis-representations made to the R publicas party is to the another its world cost to complete it. The building will be well worth the entire cost, even at present estimates, or about $250,000 in all and its modern of the thous who have comeven at present estimates, of about $55,000 in all, and is spoten of by those who have exam-ined it, in comparison with similar institutions in other States, as worth every cost it has cost. In other words, there has been no waste of the appropriated for it. Indeed, two years ago the Chairman of the Committee on Ways and Means was induced to report the appropriation of $100,000 only upon the belief that that amount would nompise the institution. The bill was again taken up this morning and postposed one week.

complete it; and this was said in reply to the charge made by the Democrats, that it would cost $100,000 more to fluish the Asylum, which was said in $100,000 more to fluish the Asylum, which was said in $100,000 more to fluish the Asylum, which was said in $100,000 more to fluish the Asylum, which was said in $100,000 more to fluish the Asylum are Democrats. Now, the fact is this: Mr. Winslow is a Democrat, and the Superintendent of the work is a Democrat, and some of the Commissioners of the Asylum are Democrats. So the sitempt for the past year to make this a party quession must fail. But Were is no excuse for the missioners of the commissioners of the sitempt for the past year to make this a party quession.

The Carthagens, New Granads, correspondent of the N. Y. Hareld writes:

ing the foam from her bows, though her yawing increased so that her bedin ace ceep controlled her at all. When she got into the channel between the Indus and the docks, the chopping sea was worse than ever. Captain Harrison gave orders to stand by with the halyards, and immed ately afterwards to down with the sail. The order was at once obeyed by the crew, but the sail and halyards were wet through; neither moved freely, and the sail, after coming down a foot stack fast. The rest eccurred in a minute. The boat had still headway enough on her to take her abreast of the open ig to the docks, when a counter eddy of wind strock her on the opposite tack. The sail instantly "jibed," as it is termed—that is to say, the canvass was forced boak against the mast, and the boat in a second, heeling over on the side on which most of the crew were sitting, filled and turned over. Dr. Watson, who exerted himself so energetically to save others, and who was himself picturely to save others, and who was himself picturely to save others, and who was himself picturely to exhausted and insonsible, says that in the first moment all went down together underneat the gig, but almost immediately afterwards, as it a penared to bim, they rose to the surface. The apray from the sea was wild and stifling, the water deadly cold, and for a moment or so, of course, none could say what happened. Dr. Watson, who kwims as well as poor Captain Harrison feeled, "All right, all right. Always cool and collected, no matter what his danger, Captain Harrison replied, "All right, all right. "We saw, also, on our visit, several convieted felons undergoing the punishment of the 'Canque,' which consists of a square board with a hole in the centre, and goes together with hinges. It is put upon the rictim's shoulders, with his head through the hole. The 'Canques' are of different sizes and weights, according to the age, and the degree of crime. Offenders are frequently compelled to wear them from four to six months, during which time it is impossible for them to lie down, and they are compelled to aix and sleep upon their haunches. Several of them had eaten and slept so long in one posture, that their skin was chased through, and they were almost covered with raw sorea. "Among others whom we saw confined, was the mother of Tai Ping Wang, the great rebeichief, of whom the Mandarins, or Imperialists, stand in great fear. They have never been able to defeat him, and have offered large rewards for his capture, without success. The Imperialists have arrested his mother and all his relatives, as far as they have been able to trace them. His poother is a woman of small stature, and nearly seventy years of age, with hair as white as snow. She had heavy chains upon the atone fastened to the ond, which trailed upon the ground. The other relatives of the rebel chief were also in chains. The females were embroidering, and the analys were kultting undershirts, using small linen twine. We likewise saw many rebels in chains, with their serrout off, and others who had been hamstrang, who were unable to rise upon their feet, but dragged themselves along with their hands." LOMBERTO OF GRAND RIVER.—The Grantspids Engle of a recent date says: prosperous. He says, owing to the long and continued good sledding. He lumbermen in Plainfield, Algoma, Sparue, and all along Royue River, have got into their mills an unusually large quantity of logs, and that they are still prosecuting their work vigorously and with success. He thinks that more lamber and shingles will be made and prepared for the murkets the eneuing season in that region, this winter and during the coming spring, than in any previous year. This is certainly good news and we hope that the present labors and authors of our lumbermen will be fully rewarded by profitable sales and prompt returns.

Baxesure Law is Canada.—The Montreal Witness contains the following:

There is a vigorous agitation kept up in several of the leading papers of Western Canada in favor of a Bankrupt Law. They all wish for a law which will accomplish three things—first, relieve the honest but unfortunate debtor on his giving up all his property; second, secure the property of frandulent bankrupts; and third, protect the just rights of creditors. These are all desirable objects were they astainable, but we apprehend that the whole sperione of the world shows this to be impossible. Any process by which an honest man may be relieved of his debts will let through rogues, and there will probably be as least ten of the latter to one of the former applying for and resping its benefits. Whenever a Bankrupt Law is enacled, there is a perfect stampede to get white-washed before it becomes so unpopular as to be repealed. If any Bankrupt Law had every proved satisfactory to any commercial community, we would say, let us have a similar law by all means in Canada; but we do not believe that such a oase can be adduced. This is no question between Upper and Lower Canada, as some of the Western papers pretend, but a question between debtor and creditor everywhere, or, more properly speaking, a question of right and wrong. Clacursart Paovision Marker—Feb. 13—The Gasett of yesterday says:

The provision market continues broyant. The demand is not large; that is to say, there is not much of a purely speculative movement, but there is a legitimate inquiry from consuming districts—and holders have great confidence, and firm at extreme prices, while they are not disposed to check the demand by pressing their views rapidly spward. Mess Pork brought $17.50 for country, city held firmly at $18. Rump pork sold at $12.00($21.30.0) for holders and sides, and $4 for hams.

There is a scarcity of bacon shoulders, and a lot of 40 hhds brought $74-while there was no difficulty in baying sides at $9. Smoked shoulders appear to be going into consumption more rapidly than sides, owing to the difference of 2c in price. Until within the last two years shoulders were usually only one cent below sides in value. About 500 bits country lard sold at 104. City is held firmly at 104. The exports of the week are fully up to the average of the acason: 1,417 bris and 705 kegs lard; 1,905 hhds, 755 to bacon and port; 2,581 bris and 751 boxes pork. sice Department of the heavy burdens imposed upon it.

Mr. Hamlin moved to strike out all the bill except the few lines abolishing the franking privilege. He wanted to abolish the system in toto. He did it it on the ground of personal convenience. He did not advocate it as a measure of economy. He believed that if you asked for contracts with the franking privilege abolished you could not get one mill reduction. The railroads and steamboat lines take every cent that can be got from the Government, and it made no difference whether they carried a ton of matter or a truck load. The Overland Mail route absorbed $600,000 to carry on cirilization. He denied that the embarrassments of the Post Office arose from the franking privilege.

Mr. Chandler said that the expenses of the Post Office were owing to the system of jobbing which prevails.

Post Office were owing to the system of jobbing which prevails.

Mr. Pugh was in favor of striking out the Federal Government, which expends more than all the States. The enormous amount, if raised by direct taxation, would not be borne a moment. If the Government expended only ten millions, we would never hear of an irrepressible conflict. It was morely a conflict for the spoils. New York, Feb. 15.—The Times' publishes the text of the McLane treaty, which varilies the summary of its stipulations published some time since.

A bloody affray occurred at Port Ewen, Unster County, on Saturdry afternoon last. Three young men from Esopus, having taken a sail in an ice-boat, fastened their boat to the dock at Port Ewen, and left her for a while. Three other young men took her and sailed about, when one of the first party, named Rilrea, returned and threatened to drive them out. One of the men stabbed him mortally. Rilrea's brother and his friend came to the scene, and in the medee which followed, the latter was frightfully wounded. Hiram Rilrea then abot one of the men, and started for Rondout, where he gave himself up to the authorities. He was badly hurt. The other names are unknown.
